

Almacube S.R.L biography

Almacube is the innovation hub and incubator of the University of Bologna, certified by the Ministry of Economic Development.

Since 1999, it supports innovation and economic development in the territory, acting as a link between academic research and industry.

Originally created to enhance the University's spin-offs, Almacube has broadened its impact thanks to business units which is made of:

- the Open Innovation Unit dedicated to guiding established companies in their innovation processes
- the Startup & Spin-off Unit focused on supporting the growth of start-ups and spin-offs through business and effective go-to-market strategies

Due to a strategic and collaborative approach, Almacube addresses a heterogeneous audience that includes start-ups, SMEs, corporations and innovators. It actively involves students, young professionals, researchers and professors in programs based on advanced methodologies such as Design Thinking, Lean Startup and Human-centered innovation.

Almacube enables the potential of academic research meeting the market needs by generating innovative and sustainable solutions for the future.
